

Temperature is encoded differently in the two matched models

The Van't Hoff audit tests whether the learned models recover the pair-specific temperature slope.