

When do true physical inputs help a learned model? A two-axis map

